

REMARKS

The amendment does not add any new matter into the application, but simply makes the application to comply with the requirements of the notice of incomplete reply. The applicant has amended the specification by adding the identification numbers of the sequence listing.

The applicant provides sequence listing in the form of computer readable diskette as well as on written form as the sequence listing was unintentionally omitted from the original application. The applicant states that the sequence listing recorded in the computer readable diskette is identical to the written sequence listing. The specification is amended to contain statement of the sequence listing as well.

The claim listing is provided in order to replace the original claims that were not commencing on a separate sheet as required.

Yours truly,
